Long...

He was and he kept his promise for less than 24 hours. He left the hospital and roared to Baton Rouge June 18 in a state police squad car to take over, to prevent his wife from filing commitment papers against him. Long sued Thursday for separation from her. Long did not appear especially excited today by his release from hospital. He made his way out of the courtroom to a waiting car. Eager followers pressed about him, trying to shake his hand.

The hearing, when it finally started, lasted less than five minutes. As soon as Long climbed to the waiting car, the driver slammed the door and it roared away.

Doctors who examined Long just before he was rushed off to the hospital at Mandeville said he is a schizophrenic paranoiac.

A week commitment order for Long in Galveston said he was mentally and physically ill and hurt himself or somebody else unless he were restrained.

Long appeared today to have about 40 pounds; he normally weighs about 200. He has eaten little at the hospital because, his lawyer said, he was afraid his stomach might have been poisoned.

It was the only course could be taken, Judge Jones said. "The doctor has been withdrawn and the head of the hospital department appointed, who released him. He doesn't look well at all, as he is surprised."

He is the state hospital board, meets before the hearing started in the morning. He was released to Bankston and Dr. Belcher, resolution was read in court.

Governor Long Places Himself Under Care Of Psychiatrists

By JACK V. FOX
United Press International

COVINGTON, La. (UPI) — Gov. Earl K. Long, out of mental hospitals for the first time in almost a month, ran the state of Louisiana today from a motel, under the watchful eyes of three psychiatrists.

Long disappeared from the motel Friday night and a state trooper said he had left for his home in Winfield, in the north central part of the state.

But his official car later turned up at the motel and a new shift of troopers who came on duty early today said he had been out for relaxation and had returned and gone to sleep.

The psychiatrists made it plain that they will stand for no foolishness from Long and ordered seven or eight days of rest with only essential visitors for him.

More Revenge Expected

Even so, Long was expected to take revenge on others he regarded as responsible for putting away a man who has "never been insane a second in my life."

That estimate of his mental condition was Long's own. The three psychiatrists said they thought he ought to still be in the hospital.

Long forced his way out of the Southeast Louisiana State Hospital Friday by firing the director of that hospital and the director of all state-owned hospitals.

He filled their positions with men who signed a statement that he was sane and there was nothing for District Judge Robert D. Jones to do but order him released.

As soon as Long got out, he sacked John Nick Brown, superintendent of state police. Politicians feared there were others on his firing list, since he charged that his being committed was a plot to "get rid of Uncle Earl."

Calls Three Doctors

Then, apparently on his own, Long called Dr. Robert Heath, Dr. Charles Watkins and Dr. Victor Lief to examine him in the motel he had taken over.

Dr. Heath is professor and chairman of the Department of Psychiatry and Neurology at the Tulane University School of Medicine and a noted neurologist and researcher in psychiatry.

Dr. Watkins is professor and chairman of the Department of Psychiatry and Neurology at the Louisiana State University School of Medicine and an internationally known psychiatric specialist.

Dr. Lief is instructor of psychiatry and medicine at the Tulane School of Medicine and an internal medicine specialist.

They evidently reached an agreement with Long about his conduct, because after they consulted with him he tried to slip away from his cabin and talk to reporters. He started to say something about wanting to clear up a news story about his wanting to commit suicide when Dr. Watkins sternly ordered him back to his cabin.

The psychiatrists also cancelled a news conference that Long had scheduled for 11 a.m. today and announced that one of them will remain constantly with Long.

"We urge his friends not to call him," they said. "We are hopeful that all persons connected with the governor's welfare won't disturb him until he gets the rest he vitally needs now."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steelworkers Union President David J. McDonald said today he is willing to resume wage negotiations with the industry's four-man bargaining team in an effort to avert a nationwide strike at midnight Tuesday.

Hickman Plant Workers Turn Down Union

HICKMAN, Ky., June 27 — Production and maintenance employees of the Hickman Garment Co. turned down a proposal that the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America act as their bargaining agent.

The mid-afternoon voting, which took place in the factory building at East Hickman under the supervision of a National Labor Relations Board examiner, counted 83 ballots against the union with 46 favoring it. There were 24 challenged votes, which are not counted unless they have a dominant influence on the outcome.

The election climaxed a six-month campaign by ACWA to establish a union here. Tom Marsella, representative of ACWA, said that four full-time employees were assigned to Hickman for the attempted unionization and an estimated $15,000 had been spent in the effort.

Results of the election outcome were indicated by Tuesday meetings of the Hickman Chamber of Commerce and union backers.

When asked if the local attempt was part of a master plan to become bargaining agents throughout the South at the union meeting Tuesday night, Marsella replied, "The ACWA is out to organize all unorganized workers in the garment industry." He added that a successful union shop at Hickman would open the door for more unionization in Western Kentucky.

Astor Hogg Is Given State Job

FRANKFORT (UPI) — Astor Hogg, Harlan County attorney and unsuccessful candidate for attorney general in the Democratic primary race, Friday was sworn in as executive secretary of the Kentucky Judicial Council.

Named at a meeting of the Judicial Council in Louisville, Hogg is to serve until Nov. 30. The job pays $10,000 a year.

The post has been vacant since Amos Eblen of Frankfort resigned as secretary Aug. 5. He was then appointed as a judge of the State Court of Appeals.

Among other action, the council also voted in favor of reappointing Eblen as its secretary. Dec. 1, provided he is available.

Eblen, although unsuccessful in his bid for Democratic nomination as judge for the remaining year of the term of the late Judge James W. Cammack Jr., also filed for the Republican nomination. He won without opposition.

He will run again for the high court seat in November against Squire N. Williams Jr. of Frankfort.

Suggestions by the council for consideration by the next legislature will be turned over to Hogg. He will do research on them and draft tentative proposals for the council to consider at its next meeting.

H-Bomb Would Not Wipe Out Mankind

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The H-bomb can slaughter millions in a day, doom other millions to slower, more agonizing deaths, and inflict upon the human race and nature damage that might make a thousand years to repair.

But atomic experts agreed today that it cannot possibly wipe out mankind.

"It cannot conceivably destroy civilization," said one expert.

—Populations can be protected in large measure against its lethal radiations and fire and to considerable extent against its fantastic blast.

—Granted such protection, this country could survive a nuclear war and, eventually, recuperate.

This was the consensus among scientific witnesses who testified at a five-day hearing on H-bomb warfare before a congressional atomic energy subcommittee.

The subcommittee assumed for purposes of the hearing that Russia hit the 224 U. S. targets with 263 H-bombs equivalent in power to 1,446 megatons—or 1,446,000,000 tons of TNT.

This country retaliated, it was assumed, and in all 4,000 megatons of hydrogen fury was unleashed.

The hearing produced one stark and unforgettable statistic: 54,800,000 American men, women, and children killed or fatally injured.

It removed any comfort from the assumption that the aggressor nation would be subjected to heavy retaliatory blows. As Rep. Chet Holifield D-Calif., subcommittee chairman, said:

"I have no desire to live in a world where 50 million of my neighbors had been destroyed. I would be too busy burying corpses."

Four Are Held Over To The Grand Jury

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four Negro teen-agers accused of raping a 14-year-old white girl were held for grand jury action on first degree rape charges.

It brought to trial and convicted, they could receive maximum 20-year prison sentences.

Manhattan District Attorney Milton Solomon ordered the four youths held for the Queens County Grand Jury and continued bail at $25,000 for each after a physician testified at a hearing Friday that his examination of the girl June 19—the day after the alleged assault—indicated she recently had been sexually abused.

Dr. Peter J. Milazzo said, he found she had a blackened eye and an injury to her left thigh.

The girl, whose name has been withheld, testified during the two-day hearing that one of the youths, Jack Bethea, 16, grabbed her as she was leaving a recreation center at the Queens Junior high school she attends the night of June 18, then dragged her up a stairway. There, she said, five other youths appeared and the rape took place.

Police said Bethea and John Rich, 16, have admitted raping the girl. The other youths, are Henry Stokes, 16, and Edward Jacobs, 17.

Two other Negro boys have admitted they helped hold the girl and act as lookouts, according to police. Because of the ages-15 and 14, their cases have been referred to juvenile authorities.

Under questioning, the girl said Bethea, holding her in a tight grip, had kissed her inside the school three days before the attack after she had told him not to.

She admitted, under questioning of a defense lawyer, that she had introduced herself to Bethea at the school. But she denies she had "kissed" him.

Steel Strike On Tuesday Night Appears Certain

By JAMES L. GILGALLAN
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steel wage contract negotiations were bogged down today and a crippling nationwide strike at midnight Tuesday seemed inevitable.

After failing to induce the top executives of 12 major steel companies to meet with him at a summit conference, David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers Union, called a meeting of the union's 33-man executive board for this morning to consider the rebuff and review "the entire situation."

The situation was critical, McDonald admitted as much when he denounced what he termed the "farical filibuster" of industry's four-man bargaining team with whom he had been negotiating the past seven weeks.

McDonald refused to go into another meeting with them. He sent telegrams inviting Roger M. Corp., and the heads of 11 other Blough, chairman of U. S. Steel companies inviting them to confer with him face-to-face.

Answer: Polite "No"

The answer was no. Politely, the steel executives informed McDonald that the companies four-man team are their "authorized representatives" and said it would "serve no useful purpose" to change present bargaining procedures.

Nobody could accurately foresee the next move in the deadlock. There was no action by governmental agencies, although James F. Finnegan, chief federal mediator, expressed willingness to provide his services if called upon by either side.

President Eisenhower had previously indicated a hands-off policy in the controversy.

Steel mills throughout the country were preparing to bank their blast furnaces. Pittsburgh reported U. S. Steel will begin shutting down its iron-making facilities in the Chicago area Sunday night.

Shutdowns Complete Tuesday

Yungtown Sheet & Tube will start closing down two coke plants five blast furnaces and 15 open hearths Monday and expects a complete shutdown by 3 p.m. Tuesday.

As McDonald put it in his telegram to the steel executives: "Time is running out. Some steel furnaces will have to be banked."

Just before disruption of negotiations, McDonald assured industry that a shutdown would be orderly.

The union chief disclosed that strike instructions had been sent to all U.S.W. locals.

Describing further meetings with industry's negotiating team as "fruitless," he said "there is nothing on the bargaining table."

He said the companies have refused to deviate from its position that the current contract agreement be extended for a one-year period, with no increase in employment costs.

In Washington Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), chairman of the Senate anti-trust monopoly subcommittee, said there is "ample room for a reasonable upward adjustment in wages" for steel workers "without the necessity of a strike."

Game Warden Who Arrested Chandler To Get Hearing

FRANKFORT (UPI) — Kendall Thomas, controversial figure in a case involving Gov. A. B. Chandler at the Ballard County Wildlife Reserve in 1957, who was later fired from his job, has been granted a hearing in the case.

The hearing has been set for Aug. 10 here. Thomas was allegedly fired because he refused to pay a $152 fine. It is upon his request that a hearing is being held.

The game warden was suspended two months without pay and fined two months' pay last December after refusing to accept a temporary transfer while Chandler was hunting at the Ballard County Refuge.

Thomas accused Chandler and former Wildlife Commissioner Earl Wallace, and a conservation officer with violating state waterfowl hunting regulations. Thomas said Chandler shot a lame goose after sundown.

Wallace then fired Thomas but the Wildlife and Game Commission reinstated him.

Shades Of Dempsey As New World Heavyweight Crowned

By JACK CUDDY
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ingemar Johansson of Sweden, who looked like Jack Dempsey and tied his knockout record in winning the world heavyweight championship, is perfectly willing to even eagerly to try it again in September if dethroned Floyd Patterson thinks it was a fluke.

Johansson and his handlers made that clear today even as they celebrated his stunning third-round technical knockout over Patterson at Yankee stadium Friday night in which handsome "Ingie" tied a Dempsey mark by scoring seven knockdowns in on round.

Edwin Aquist, Johansson's "advisor" from hometown Göteborg, Sweden, said, "We want the contracted return fight at Yankee Stadium before 80,000 people in September. They didn't come out to see him at the dreched stadium last night, but now they will next time."

Burly Ingemar - Scenepoint of the 1952 Olympics but now an international idol - said, "Yes, they've seen my right hand and so has Patterson."

Never Saw "Thunderbolt"

But Patterson actually didn't see that right fist—that "Goleborg thunderbolt"—early in the third round when it exploded on the chin as part of a left-right, one-two punch, and dropped him to the canvas for the first of seven electrifying trips.

It was the heavy, booming right that dropped him five times, a left hook once and a left-right left once.

Patterson, with blood flowing from his nose and his eyes glazed with grogginess, suffered the second defeat and first knockout of his career of 37 fights and in his fifth defense of the crown.

A return-bout contract provides that Ingemar give 24-year-old Floyd a return shot at the title within 90 days somewhere in the United States. And the contract stipulates definitely that Johansson's entire purse from Friday night be held in escrow until he fulfills the contract.

Promoter Bill Rosenzweig, who estimated he lost about $75,000 on Friday night's hard-luck bout, has Johansson under contract for the return Patterson fight.

Slender, young Bill said today, "I haven't decided where to put the return fight. It may take Continued on Page Three

Find Is Told On Level Of Cholesterol

By DELOS SMITH

UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK — (UPI) — In one tribe of human beings the cholesterol blood levels of the males do not increase with age, according to new and impressive evidence. That's exciting because it is contrary to previous scientific findings concerning human males.

Increasing blood levels of that fatty blood substance, cholesterol, have been repeatedly indicted as a prime cause of "hardening" of the arteries which, in turn, leads to heart attacks, the number one killer of males in their prime.

In science a single exception shatters any rule. If increasing years do not make a rise in masculine cholesterol levels inevitable, then the tendency of the levels to rise in most males as they get older, has to be due to their circumstances rather than to their masculinity.

Jewish Group Exceptions
The new evidence indicates that the males of the tribe of Yeme-nite Jews are the exception. These males had already attracted much scientific wonderment because

LEDGER & TIMES — MURRAY, KENTUCKY

they seem all but immune to heart attacks.

Drs. Daniel Brunner, Gideon Manolis, and K. Loebel, research scientists in the government hospital, Jaffa, Israel, made exhaustive measurements of the fatty substances of the blood of 176 of these males, 41 of them between 18 and 20 years old and 33 between 30 and 50. There were no significant differences in cholesterol levels between the young group and the older one.

They made the same measurements in 160 Jews of Eastern and Western European origin, the Ashkenazi Jews. Forty-five of these were 18 to 20 years old and the remainder were between 30 and 52.

Age Increases Cholesterol
Here the difference between cholesterol blood levels between young and not-so-young was found to be approximately the difference found in males of other races and climates in the previous investigations which in their aggregate had caused many scientists to think that aging inevitably increased the blood cholesterol levels of males.

These previous investigations had been of such diverse males as groups in Minnesota, New York City, Italy, Sweden, and the Bantus of South Africa. The incidence of male heart attacks is high in the United States and Northern Europe, but low in Italy and among the Bantus.

The Yemite Jews are a very special tribe which lived a segregated life for 2,000 years in central Arabia before it immigrated to Israel 10 years ago. Since then they have been living with the Ashkenazi Jews whose blood cholesterol patterns were shown to be of the general pattern of the Europe from which they originated.

In reporting to the international technical journal, "The Lancet," the scientists said their

Fred Haney May Quit After This Season But Warren Spahn Keeps Pitching Without Let-Up

By MILTON RICHMAN

United Press International

Fred Haney still says he's going to quit after this season, and that's his privilege, but 38-year old Warren Spahn keeps pitching as if he plans to go on forever.

Shooting for a 20-victory season for the 10th time in his career, the veteran Milwaukee southpaw reached the halfway mark by beating the Chicago Cubs, 11-1, for his 10th triumph of the season
Friday night.

Spahn, now ahead of his game-winning pace for any year since the Braves came to Milwaukee in 1953, helped his own cause by hitting the 22nd home run of his career in the seventh inning. He already holds the National League record for home runs hit by a pitcher.

With 256 victories already under his belt, Spahn now is aiming for the all-time record of 366 by Eppa
(Jeptha) Rixey, only other NL left-hander to exceed him in total wins.

Braves Collect 19 Hits
The Braves pounded out 19 hits in retaining their two-game lead.
Wes Covington drove in three runs with three hits and Johnny Logan, who also had three hits, knocked in two more.

Second-place San Francisco downed Philadelphia, 8-0; Los Angeles won its fifth straight by defeating Pittsburgh, 6-5, and Cincinnati beat St. Louis, 7-6, in 10 innings.

Cleveland remained a game in front in the American League race with a 11-5 decision; Baltimore moved into second place by sweeping a two-night doubleheader from Detroit, 12-7 and 4-1; New York climbed into a third-place tie with Chicago by topping the White Sox, 8-4, and Washington licked Kansas City, 8-4.

Mike McCormick of the Giants shut out the Phillies for the third time this season to keep San Francisco in second place, two percentage points ahead of the third-place Dodgers.

Dodgers Win On Homer
The Dodgers-Pirates game was a battle of home runs with Charlie Neal's two-run circuit in the seventh furnishing Johnny Podres the margin for his eighth victory.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
The adventure that led to a young American artist in Paris Mark Travers, to the most challenging and desirable woman he had ever encountered began when his best friend, Philippe, was murdered.

Philippe, a French diplomat working to effect peace in Algeria, was assassinated while he was endeavoring to meet Timgad, an underground leader of Algerian rebels. Philippe's dying words were "Find Timgad."

Mark, who had been in his search for Timgad until Cordine Javal, one of the women in Philippe's life, said that Timgad had been seen in Monte Carlo. Mark flew to Monte Carlo, and immediately received a threatening note: "Unless you stop interfering in matters which are none of your concern, you will not survive."

Now go on with the story—

CHAPTER 2
ALL AT ONCE Mark Travers grove aware again of his surroundings—the room he had taken late last night, his half-unpacked airplane luggage, the fruit basket and the flowers (courtesy of the hotel), the breakfast tray on a table between the windows. He must have stopped eating when he had opened the envelope.

He reached for the note in his pocket and read it again. But he had known that he had come to Monte Carlo? Only two people—Inspector Perrier and Cordine Javal. And of Cordine Javal, Perrier had warned him. She was unreliable, he had said, because she drank.

Mark threw himself on the bed and crossed his arms behind his head, looking up at the ceiling. But instead of being able to concentrate by the tried method of staring at a blank spot, he found himself looking into his own face. For the ceiling, like the wall beside his bed, was decorated with panels of mirrors.

Not only could he see the room again, but himself, a tall, lanky young man with a mane of uncombed, brownish hair and a thin, narrow face in which the eyes—large gray eyes—were the only outstanding feature. Irritated, he got up and started to pace the room again.

Of course, it was possible that he had been watched ever since he had accompanied Philippe on his way to meet Timgad three months ago. Or maybe he had made himself conspicuous trying to find Philippe's murderer. Certainly he had left no stone unturned, questioning all sorts of people, wandering through the Arab quarters of Paris, Lyons, Marseilles. Under the pretext of sketching and reporting, he had even gone to Algeria.

What if Perrier was right? What if Cordine Javal had drunk too much and, without realizing it, had given away the reason why Mark had come to Monte Carlo? He wouldn't know until he saw her. He had no way of contacting her. He would have to wait until ten o'clock.

Again he looked at the note. His face set. Another attempt to terrorize. It would not stop him. On the contrary, he had assumed that nobody knew of his presence here. The note made a difference. Now he would have to use the utmost caution. For the first time in his search for Timgad, the odds were against him.

Mark shrugged and opened the door to the loggia. The beauty of the landscape struck him as if he had never seen it before. In front of him stretched the Mediterranean, as calm and blue as a picture post card—when his mind was distracted suddenly by the appearance of a girl.

She seemed to come floating out of the air like a cloud, cut loose from the sky to settle for a second on earth. For, hardly had he seen her than she was gone, only to reappear the next moment and be gone again. It took him several minutes to realize that she was dancing. But it didn't give her any more reality.

She moved with such weightless speed, such perfect grace and control, as Mark had hardly believed possible. He watched her, bewitched; then, moving carefully, as if afraid that she might vanish at the slightest sound, he turned into his room to fetch pad and pencil.

She was performing some brilliantly executed movements when he came back, and he recognized what he was watching—Tchekov's Swan Lake.

Now he could almost hear the music, see Markova dancing the parts of Odette and Odile, and himself, excited and ambitious to make good at his first job for a newspaper. Yes, sketching the mastery of motion had started his career. Criminally he thought that he would not let it end the same way.

With sudden impatience he tore the sheet in two, crumpled it between his hands and, without looking back, he left the loggia. A glance at his watch showed a quarter to eight. His appointment with Cordine on the golf links, just below the Monte Agel, was not to take place for two hours. Had she personally met the man who called himself Timgad or only someone who knew where to find him?

How slowly time passed. But then, this was no day on which it was easy to kill time. He pulled a pair of trunks from his luggage, threw off his dressing gown and took a towel from the rack in the bathroom.

To have the pool all to himself seemed inviting and for a moment he hesitated, but it was only a few steps down to the beach, and to swim out into the soft blue sea offered an illusion of boundlessness. He turned to ward it, ran down the steps, stumbled almost fell, and heard a voice say indignantly, "You must be an American. They never pay attention to where they are going."

"I'm terribly sorry. Did I hurt you?"

"Yes, you did."

The girl lifted a long slender leg. "You stepped on my ankle."

She sat up, began rubbing her left foot vigorously.

She was wearing a long, white bathrobe with a hood tied under her chin. Large blue glasses covered most of her face. All Mark could see was the point of a small, straight nose and a heart-shaped chin. Then, as she knelt down, he noticed a pair of badly worn ballet slippers sticking out of her beach bag.

He decided to say nothing about having watched her dance, nor to mention his admiration of her performance or his efforts to sketch her, but to pretend that she was just a girl he was seeing for the first time.

"What can I do to make up for it?"

To his surprise, she blushed. Her lips parted for a second, then closed tightly. She shook her head, lowered it, and said in a small voice, "I was joking. It doesn't really hurt, but you startled me. Usually there is nobody around. I mean, at this hour."

That's why I came here. I was dozing, I guess."

Her embarrassment delighted him because it was obviously real, without any attempt at flirtation. "Now you make me feel dreadful for waking you."

"Don't," she said seriously. "I was taught to fall asleep whenever I wanted to and to wake up without feeling groggy or cranky. I can do it at will; just doze for a minute or two and feel completely rested. Like Napoleon."

Her voice was slow and soft, with a little lilt at the end of each sentence. He wished she would go on talking. "A very useful habit. Who taught you?"

"My brother, Guy. He thinks life is too short to waste half of it sleeping."

Too short, thought Mark Travers. Much too short for all the things one wanted to accomplish. "Indeed, he is right."

"Oh, yes. He is always right."

A little line appeared in the smooth curves of her cheek, pulled at the corner of her full, wide mouth and made her look older all of a sudden. How old was she anyhow? When he had watched her dance, he had taken for granted that such virtuosity had to be the result of years of training, that she must be in her early twenties.

Now he was no longer sure. There was about her the seriousness of a child. That was it. She was as natural as a child who didn't know its own power. But the line of resignation around her mouth disturbed him. . . .

Johansson scaled 196 pounds to Patterson's 192.

Machen Kayo Not Fluke . . . The amazing Swede proved dynamically that his first-round knockout of previously unbeaten Eddie Machen the top contender at Göteborg last Sept. 14, was not a fluke. It was that kayo by European champion Johansson which won him Friday night's world title shot.

Johansson's victory climaxed the greatest shame-to-glory saga in ring history. His own countrymen branded him a coward after the 1952 Olympic boxing finals at Helsinki. Ingemar was tossed out of the ring for running and refusing to fight in the second round of his bout with the late Ed Sanders of Boston. In training for Friday night's fight, Ingemar refused to throw his right hand full strength, "because I don't want to hurt my sparring partners." Moreover, he appeared amateurish. But he threw the right Friday night.

Promoter Rosenbom had not announced any official figures for this forenoon, but he estimated the crowd at 30,000, and the gate at $425,000.

No official theater-TV figures were announced either.

Johansson was guaranteed 100,000 against 20 per cent of the net gate-up to $50,000-and 20 per cent of "promotional nets" from theater-TV, radio and movies.

Patterson was to receive 30 per cent of the net gate and various percentages on a sliding scale, ranging up to 60 per cent, on the promotional nets, from theater-TV movies and radio.

Marriages In U.S. Increase Four Per Cent

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Marriages in the United States decreased by about four percent in 1958, the second straight year of decline in the number of weddings, it reported by statisticians. The actual number of marriages during the past year was about 1,456,000, compared with 1,518,000 in 1957. The 1958 marriages were related to business recession, the statisticians point out, since the sharpest decrease occurred in the period from September 1957 through March 1958. Marriages may be expected to rebound soon to their pre-recession level, according to the statisticians. Data available thus far in 1959 indicate a small increase over the corresponding period of 1958. Moreover, with the forthcoming rise in the number of persons attaining adult age, the annual number of marriages should climb rapidly after the early 1960's and remain at high levels for many years to come. There were wide geographic variations in the trend of marriages from 1957 to 1958, with 26 states showing decreases and 22 states and the District of Columbia having increases. The sharpest decreases were in those with changes in their marriage laws, while adjoining states had the biggest increases. Indiana, where a waiting period has been required since January 1958, had the biggest drop—45 percent. Marriages in the adjoining states of Ohio and Kentucky increased by 10 and 23 percent, respectively. Almost as sharp a change was recorded in Mississippi, where the legal age for marriage was raised on July 1, 1958. Marriages there decreased by 42 percent, while Alabama, Tennessee, and Arkansas had increases of 23 to 18 percent. Among cities with at least 1,000,000 population, Los Angeles alone showed no change. New York had a three percent decrease, Chicago and Philadelphia had four percent decreases, and Detroit almost seven percent. Alaska and Hawaii, which had not yet attained statehood in 1958 and are therefore not included in the United States record, had respectively a three percent decrease in marriages.

'STRICTLY ABNORMAL'— Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy testifies before the Senate appropriations committee in Washington following statement to reporters that he would investigate failure of the U.S. patrol bomber which was attacked over the Sea of Japan to return the fire. The fact that some of its guns were not working was "strictly abnormal," he said.

If someone were to deprive you of the right of relaxation you would be a slave.

Yet relaxation itself can enslave us!

Nero is a villain of history because he fiddled while Rome burned. He couldn't have put out the fire ... but what a colossal stupid time to relax!

There are hours in every week when we need to relax. And there are hours that challenge our mightiest effort.

It is like those hours when, with millions of the world over, we have opportunity to seek, in our churches truth ... faith ... God!

The value of relaxation is unquestionable. But the value of religious and moral growth is supreme!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a stronghold of spiritual values. Without a church, no other democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
